Bringing Hope With Compassionate, State-Of-The-Art Cancer Care

PERSONALIZED, COMPREHENSIVE CARE IN A “HOME-LIKE” ENVIRONMENT

You never know when your life will forever change with a diagnosis of cancer, and it can happen when you least expect it. Deborah, the mother of a toddler and in her early thirties, was diagnosed with breast cancer during her third trimester of pregnancy with her second child.

After she and her husband welcomed a healthy baby into the world sooner than planned, Deborah underwent surgery. Afterward, feeling overwhelmed and worried about her family, she faced cancer treatment.

“My family and faith got me through a very difficult time in my life,” Deborah confided, whose breast cancer is now in remission. “I was also blessed to have amazing doctors who recommended Dr. Mackey and Southlake Oncology. Everything happened so quickly—I just had to put my faith in the people who were treating me.”

“Everyone at Southlake Oncology is wonderful and caring,” Deborah said. “Dr. Mackey took the time to explain treatment options in-depth. He offers hope, but he doesn’t sugar coat things. I really liked that. He laid everything out for us, answered all of our questions, made recommendations, and then let me make the decision. With a young family at home, I decided to undergo very aggressive treatment. It was the right choice for me, and I would recommend Southlake Oncology to anyone.”

Deborah added, “Being a cancer survivor has made me a better person, mother, and wife. Each new day is a blessing and I thank Dr. Mackey and Southlake Oncology for helping give me the opportunity to be here to see my children grow and be part of their lives.”

AGGRESSIVE, ADVANCED THERAPY OPTIONS COMBINED WITH PERSONALIZED CARE

Like Deborah, if you or a loved one has been diagnosed with cancer, you can put your trust in Southlake Oncology, part of the Choice Cancer Care group. Dr. Kiran Kancharla, Dr. James Mackey, and the

Kiran Kancharla, MD

Motivated to do an oncology fellowship following her personal experience of taking care of her father who was diagnosed with lymphoma at age 42, Dr. Kancharla is known for her compassion and empathy. She is board-certified in hematology/oncology and internal medicine and has been in practice for eleven years.

James Mackey, MD

Dr. Mackey, a native Texan, has an open mind toward alternative and complementary medicine if he believes that an appropriate patient can benefit, and is not afraid to think outside the box in order to achieve a patient's treatment goals. In practice for seven years, he is board-certified in internal medicine and medical oncology.

entire team provide exceptional treatment and care in a warm, welcoming environment. Southlake Oncology also offers leading-edge "high-end" cancer care and medical treatment options that include advanced therapies and clinical trials that may not be commonly available in your community.

Dr. Mackey commented, "We stay at the very forefront of new treatments and clinical trials. Recent innovations in chemotherapy and radiation therapy treatments are more effective yet produce fewer side effects. Some of the most exciting new therapies treat breast cancer and prostate cancer."

Southlake Oncology's cancer treatment options include chemotherapy, radiation therapy, and alternative cancer therapies. "Studies indicate that over 50 percent of cancer patients have participated in alternative therapy. We're open to discussing these options with our patients and will help them determine which treatments will be most appropriate for them," Dr. Kancharla added.

PEACE OF MIND, BODY, HEART & SPIRIT

Recognizing that aspects of the human experience are important along with aggressive treatment options, Southlake Oncology helps patients find inner peace during a challenging time.

Kiran Kancharla, MD, commented, "We treat the entire patient, not just their cancer. We strive to meet all of their needs and to become part of the patient's extended family, providing more than medicine itself—comfort, hope and respect, for those diagnosed with cancer."

"We're unique, and very in tune with the human aspect of cancer treatment. It shows in our attitudes, how we work together in the office, with our patients and their families, and with referring physicians," Dr. Mackey explained. "We develop close connections with our patients and love it when they stop in and visit us after their treatment is over to let us know how they are doing and to say hi."
